What is the definition of disease?

A California hospital in the United States once dissected 300 young people who died in car accidents. They were "healthy" and energetic during their lifetime, but the results of the dissection were that their blood vessels were blocked to varying degrees. Of course, they are not cardiovascular patients. The blockage does not cause them cannot stand up or walk normally.

Such a situation is actually a sub-health and chronic disease that is ignored by people. The fact of true health, whether it is a common cold, a mental illness like depression, or life-threatening cancer, all illnesses are caused by malfunctioning body cells.

The most important medical discovery in 200 years
"Humans have only one disease" - cell disease
- New York Times bestseller "Choose Health"

So what is health anyway?

In short, health should be the state of the body in which all cells are functioning optimally.

Understand our Body

When cells malfunction, the human body cannot continue to maintain the ecological balance to regulate and maintain itself. No matter how to study it, cellular malfunction is the root cause of disease.

The Human Body has a magical self-healing ability

The human body has a miraculous self-healing function. Through the purpose of self-diagnosis, self-regulation, self-repair, and self-healing, it can get rid of the stimulation of foreign drugs, which is called "the self-healing ability of the human body". The ability to self-heal is inherent in every human being. Unfortunately, most people living in modern civilization have long been accustomed to injecting and taking drugs to fight disease, but they have neglected their powers, leading to a worse ability to heal themselves.

The basic way to strengthen and activate human self-healing ability is to strengthen and activate cells because cells are the basic unit of living organisms

Cell function determines human health: stimulates cell potential. Stimulate the "superpower" of cell repair and regeneration inherent in the human body, so that the body's organs can repair and regenerate themselves, delay aging, and stay youthful.

What is Terahertz?

Terahertz is actually a frequency unit,  $1\text{THz}=1000\text{GH}$ . Terahertz waves are also known as far-infrared waves, with a wavelength between  $0.03\text{mm}-3\text{mm}$ , which is shorter than microwaves.

Terahertz is a very special existence:

1. Spectrally, terahertz waves are between microwaves and infrared waves in the entire electromagnetic spectrum;
1. From the perspective of optics, terahertz waves are called far-infrared rays;
1. In terms of energy, the energy in the terahertz band is between electrons and photons.

Terahertz—Ray of Life

In the 1980s, American scientists discovered a type of light that vibrates at the same frequency as normal cells -- terahertz waves. Its radiation is only 1/40 of sunlight, which is very safe for the human body. It is also known as the “Ray of Life” because it activates normal cells and repairs damaged cells.

After nearly 30 years of development, Hertzian wave technology has been widely used in astronomy, radar, medical imaging, and other fields. In 2013, China broke through the technological monopoly of the United States and Europe, and successfully developed a terahertz security detector. The terahertz cell physiotherapy device that China applied for in 2017 officially entered the market. It fully stimulates the activity of terahertz waves, penetrates 20-30 cm into the human body, activates good cells, and repairs and kills bad cells, thereby activating the body's self-healing ability and improving sub-health problems.

3 Working Principles of Terahertz

Frequency

The frequency of terahertz light waves is the same as normal cells in the human body. The resonance occurs at the same frequency. When terahertz light waves encounter normal cells, they will pass through at a constant temperature, and cells will be activated by absorbing the energy of terahertz waves; When terahertz light waves are irradiated on the stagnated parts of the body or the parts with mutated cells, it will warm up. After several physiotherapies, the stasis area gradually dissipated.

3 Working Principles of Terahertz

Wave Band

The band of terahertz light waves is between far-infrared and microwave, and the wavelength is between 3-1000 microns, which is very safe. Terahertz light waves are only one-thousandth of the radiation of mobile phones and 1/40 of the radiation of sunlight. Forty hours of exposure to the body is equivalent to one hour of sun exposure.

3 Working Principles of Terahertz

Strong Penetration

Terahertz light waves are particularly penetrating, artificial massage can penetrate 2-3 centimeters in the human body, general instruments can reach 6-7 centimeters, while OlyLife THz Cell Essential can penetrate 20-25 centimeters. Activating epidermis, muscles, and viscera cells faster. Expelling cold and dampness from the epidermis, and viscera, activate and repair cells layer by layer.

---

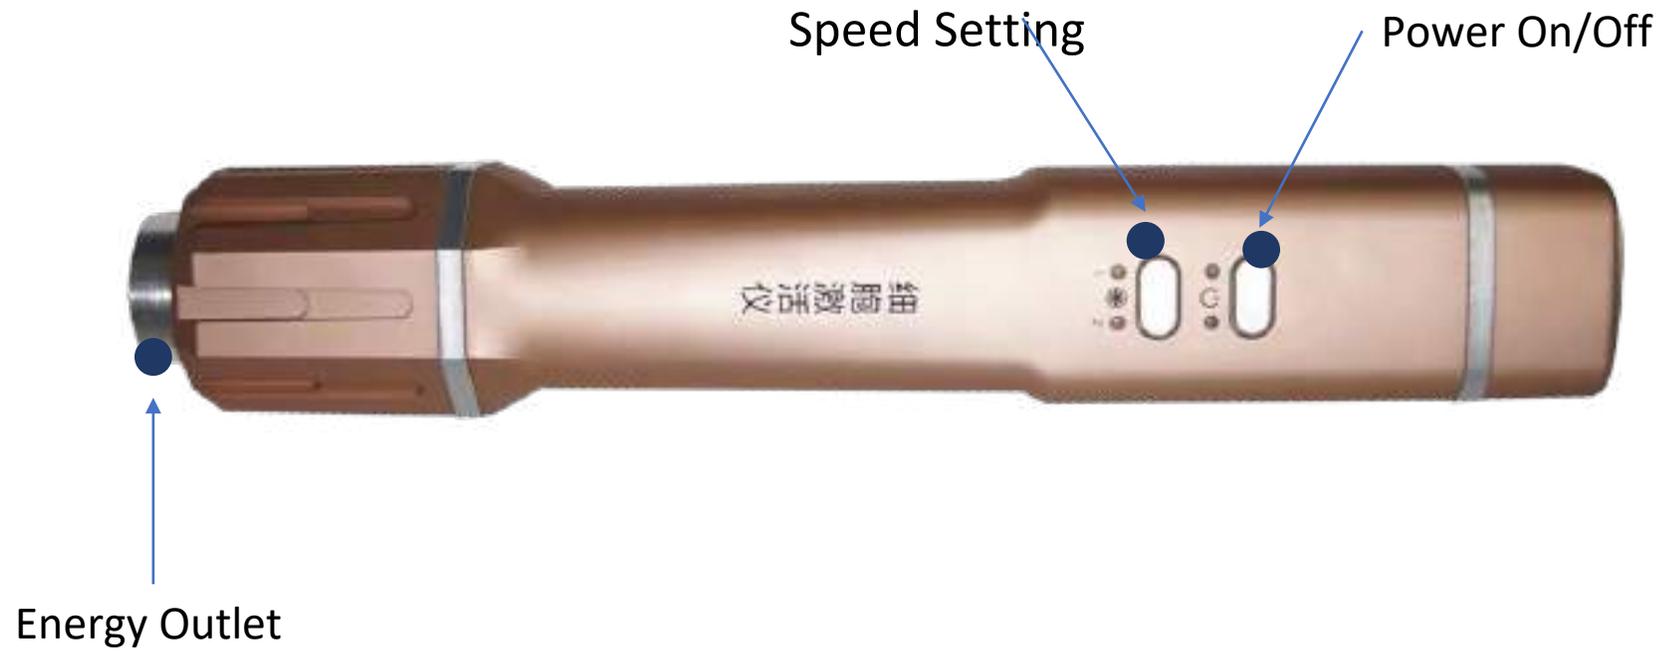

When we lack “Yang” qi, it can be supplemented by other sources. Cooked food and moxa are a form of supplementation, but only on the surface of the body, and have limited effects. OlyLife THz Cell Essential resonance with the human body with 15-20cm penetration, helps to supplement human “Yang” qi, replenishing and repairing in a larger range, which was more effective than hyperthermia and moxa.
